President's Message

Larry Porricelli, SCWA President

At our June meeting Mark Sevi spoke to a capacity house on his techniques for podcasting for writers.

Our July meeting features Baron Birtcher, who is joining us from the Pacific Northwest, or Hawaii, but wither way he's making a big effort to speak with us, so let's fill the house for him. Make your reservations for this exciting event.

Thank you for making the SCWA the phenomenal organization it is today, and for even better things to come. If your annual fees are due, please sign up to extend for your next twelve months.

Happy writing.

Southern California Writers Association Anthology

IT'S ALL IN THE STORY

It's All in the Story sold out its original press run, and a second print run now has books back with our distributor.

The following SCWA members created the masterpieces that are included in this exciting edition:

Biff (Harold D.) Baker, Phyllis Blake, PJ Colando, Rose de Guzman, Lani Forbes, Wanda Green, Dana Hammer, Catheryn Hull, Steven G. Jackson, D.P.Lyle, Maddie Margarita, Jeffrey J. Michaels, Anne Moose, Andrew R. Nixon, Jo Perry, D. J. Phinney, Jo Ellen Pitzer, Casey Pope, David Putnam, Glenda Brown Rynn, Janis Thomas, and Julie Wells.

Here are a few of the many praises for It's All in the Story.

“What John Steinbeck said about one of his stories—that he wanted it to ‘strike without the readers’ knowledge’—might be said of many of these tales. . . . This collection is as expansive as the West itself.”

—Dr. Susan Shillinglaw, Director, National Steinbeck Center

“It’s All in the Story is a moveable feast of California literature, brilliantly selected to illustrate the value of the compelling short story.”

—Kimberley Cameron, Kimberley Cameron & Associates Literary Agency

Our hope is that sales of our anthology justify publishing another one, and that this is just the beginning for SCWA. We are grateful for the tremendous response and support, and look forward to branching out in new ways that will add value to our writing community.

For more information visit the SCWA Anthology website at: www.SCWAanthology.com.

July 21st Speaker - Baron R. Birtcher

“Creating Suspense and Delivering the Unexpected”

Baron R. Birtcher spent a number of years as a professional musician, guitarist, singer and songwriter and founded an independent record label.

His first two hardboiled mystery novels, Roadhouse Blues and Ruby Tuesday were Los Angeles Times and IMBA Best-Sellers. Angels Fall, the third installment in the critically-acclaimed Mike Travis series, was nominated for the 2009 Left Coast Crime Award (the “Lefty”) for Best Law Enforcement/Police Procedural novel of the year.

Rain Dogs is Mr. Birtcher’s first stand-alone novel, and a Claymore Award finalist.

He has also had the honor of serving as a judge for both the Edgar and the Shamus Awards.

Baron currently divides his time between Kona, Hawaii and Portland, Oregon.

August 18th Speaker - Antionette Kuritz

“Building a Public Presence and PR for Your Book”

Antoinette is The founder of The La Jolla Writers Conference – one of the first writers conferences to cover the art, craft, and business of writing and which is now in it’s seventeenth year – Antoinette Kuritz is also the founder of Strategies Book Development & PR, a company devoted to helping both aspiring and successful authors define and reach their goals. She has taught at BEA, at Publishing University, and in countless other venues. For more than eight years she hosted her own radio show, Writers’ Roundtable, and for more than fifteen years she has been the book person on San Diego’s KUSI-TV Good Morning San Diego.

June Meeting Highlights - Mark Sevi

“Podcasts for Writers”

Mark Sevi, founder of Orange County Screenwriters Assoc., was wired and so was the podcast station he'd set up in the Claim Jumper's banquet room. "It's one of the joys of my life!" he stated, noting he'd begun podcasting eighteen months before. Sevi explained how for less than $150, writers can create their own podcasts to promote their work, groups or organizations, compose audio versions of their books, make [a little] money, perhaps influence trends, politics, market segments, and just have fun.

At registration, everyone received a red raffle ticket for a chance to win one of the two large yellow boxes sitting on the side table: Behringer Podcastudio USB Recording Kits with Mixer, Microphone, and Headphones. The kits also contain recording and podcasting software. You should have been here. (They sell online at guitarcenter.com for $99.99.) Now the whole room was wired!

Podcasts are short audio programs (some are only video and a few are both) that you can record and listen to anytime on your smartphone, tablet, or computer. The typical listener, according to Edison Media Research, "is young, wealthy, educated, employed full-time," uses social media, and also follows their brands. He/she not only subscribes to on-demand video services but usually pays attention until the end.

When and where people listen:

49% At home	4% On public transportation
22% In car/truck	4% While working out
11% At work	3% Walking around
	7% Other

Where are the sites of podcasts? Sevi says he posts in one place, but then it gets "all over the Internet." Some sites are free; others charge a monthly subscription, such as $15. Mark Sevi's site is plotpoints.com, which is also on iTunes as thousands are, he says.

Try these: Amazon Alexa, Google Home, Libsyn, Buzzsprout, Podiant, Podbean, Castos, Simplecast, Libsyndication.com, Blubrry, Fireside.fm, Blogtalkradio, and AudioBoom.

Mark Sevi now teaches "Podcasting for Writers" at Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa. His current course started June 23, 10:00-1:00, and runs for six Saturdays. Watch for the next one. Sevi's scriptwriting course runs on Thursday nights, 6:30-9:30, and is "The most fun you can have with your clothes on!" Contact him at ocscreenwriters.com or call him at 919-SCRIPTS.

Creating your podcast: Sevi recommends planning for a finished length of 15-30 minutes. Developing a whole podcast will take a total of 7-10 hours: writing (1-2 hours), producing (2 hours) and editing (5-6 hours). Somewhere along the way, it's essential to develop a good logo.

After planning the heart of the content—interviews, talks, etc., you'll need to develop the individual tracks such as the introduction, the afterwards "outro," and the music you want at the start, between segments, and at the end. Sevi says you can find royalty-free music online. He warns against doing any segments without notes or bullet points for yourself. An impromptu approach litters your podcast with "too many uhs and ahs." After the final edit comes the publishing and delivering stage. Last you tackle promotion and distribution to social media and wherever else.

"Can you commit to a schedule for the podcasts?" asks Sevi. Before jumping into this new media niche, you need to be sure. The podcasts "should drop at the same time every week or month." Scriptwriting is Sevi's market niche, of course, with a new podcast on air every two weeks.

Participating with you can be co-hosts, guests, or canned interviews. But you do wind up constantly adapting, he says. At the present in Mark Sevi's scriptwriting program, he's the only host. Another warning: "It's not good to disrespect another author. Negative stuff gets out." He also demonstrated the technical components of his podcast setup and the software he prefers, Audacity, which is open-source software available for Mac or PC and free! (Yes, you should have been here.)

Our speaker recommends these podcasts for writers:

- A. Muir Lafferty's "I Should Be Writing" at murverse.com. "It's one of the best."
- B. "Odyssey Writing Workshop" at odysseyworkshop.org.
- C. Jeff Rutherford's site, readingandwritingpodcast.com. You can even find an interview here with James Lee Burke.

Then it was red raffle ticket time to see who would win the Behringer Podcaststudio Kits. Our whole atmosphere was wired! The two thrilled winners were Angela Eudey, a first-time attendee, and Rebecca Welsh.

It was a very different but GREAT program for SCWA! In addition to the above ways to contact our speaker, see also marksevi.com and LinkedIn.com/marksevi.

SCWA Critique Program

We have some exciting news on the critique front. One of our members received a critique, and he credits that critique with getting him a two-day response from an agent, who wants to see the entire manuscript. We love it when that happens.

Critique requests should also be sent to Steve Jackson at steven@stevengjackson.com. If you have not received a response to a previous critique request, please resubmit (without any fee if you've already paid) to Steve. Steve will direct your sample (up to 15 double-spaced pages) to one of the Board members once we receive your payment. Payments ($20.00 for members and $30.00 for non-members) should be directed to Don Westenhaver.

Terms of Use and Content Information Disclaimer

The SCWA encourages open, respectful communication between individuals interested in the craft of writing through a variety of social and traditional media, such as Facebook, SCWA website and emails. Any individual using inappropriate language, discussing inappropriate topics, or commenting in a disrespectful way will be removed from access to any future SCWA communication methods.

The SCWA communication sites should only be used for dialogues related to the craft of writing. Non-writing related topics should be done via other forms of personal communication. Please review the content disclaimer located in the newsletter via the SCWA website www.ocwriter.com or on the About page of the Facebook. The SCWA does not endorse individual opinions placed on any of its sites.

The SCWA receives information on various services, writing contests, and events. As a courtesy, we will forward the information to our members. Unless otherwise indicated, the SCWA does not discourage, encourage or recommend any of the services, contests or events. Many of these services, contests and events cost money; therefore, we recommend that you evaluate the opportunities based on your individual situation and interest. Because of our membership email protection policy, please do not forward information to the general membership directly. We request that all members forward any information to the SCWA President for approval and forwarding to the membership.

SCWA members wishing to share appropriate writing-related information and resources are welcome to do so via the SCWA Facebook page. The SCWA Newsletter Editor will determine the information to be contained in the SCWA on-line newsletter which is primarily used for official SCWA information.
